

ABSTRACT

Systems and method for canceling a speech interaction session are disclosed. In one exemplary implementation a method of canceling a speech interaction session, comprises receiving a signal indicating that a predetermined switch has been set to a first state, monitoring a time parameter indicative of the time the switch remains in the first state, and canceling the speech interaction session if the time parameter exceeds a threshold.